

Damm and Maes Named Adobe Campus Leaders

Kara Damm, Technology Integration Specialist, and Shelly Maes, Manager of Member Services, were recently named Adobe Campus Leaders by the Adobe Education team.

Adobe Campus Leaders are educators who are fostering creativity across their educational institutions with Adobe solutions. They bring fresh ideas and new ways of teaching the creative process and creative expression to students and colleagues and have proven to be active and influential leaders. Adobe Campus Leaders are employed by K-20 educational institutions as an instructor, administrator or staff; they are members and contributors to the Adobe Education Exchange; and have examples of how they have incorporated creativity with Adobe solutions into their institutions' classes or programs.

The best reason to have an Adobe Campus Leader at every educational institution is to have an open line of communication with Adobe Education on what programs and resources are available for the institution and their students. The Adobe Campus Leader will be aware of special opportunities and initiatives and will also offer feedback to Adobe. All of this will help Adobe continue to evolve products and services in line with the needs of educational institutions and students.
